

REVERENDREYNOLDS.COM

Hello and Welcome to

ReverendReynolds.com!

Perhaps, the best thing about getting older is acquiring, in one word, “wisdom.”

I'd really like to share with you so much of what I've learned from my father (Rev. Dr. Everett S. Reynolds), and his father (Rev. Dr. Clarence C. Reynolds) and Clarence's brother (Rev. Dr. Abraham Lincoln Reynolds, Jr.), and their father (Rev. Abraham Lincoln Reynolds, Sr.), and his father (Rev. John Thomas Reynolds). That's right, for over 150 years a “Reverend Reynolds” from my family has actively shared his ministry throughout this country and around the world!

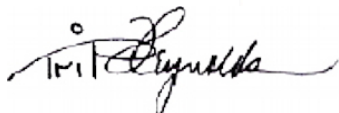

As a child I vividly remember a plaque high on the credenza in our living room that read, “God is first. Others are second. I am third.” I wasn't immediately aware of my family's extremely robust pastoral history. Then, as I got older, I found myself frequently amazed by the richness and sheer scope of my family's commitment to preaching and helping others. Again, “God is first. Others are second. I am third.”

My unique lineage as a 5th generation “preacher's kid” offers me the privilege to proudly, but humbly, share the wisdom I've acquired from the local church perspective to hands-on observation of religious leaders in my family dealing with constantly evolving social politics. Sadly, not all ministers in my family were faithful to truly living “God's words,” and I'll discuss this just as frankly.

In addition to offering access to an extremely robust archive of sermons, prayers, photos, videos, music, and historical documents, “ReverendReynolds.com” also provides expertise in building local church growth, fund raising, community involvement, and managing the perpetual challenge of social politics.

I warmly invite you to contact me; so together we might share an extraordinarily rich Black pastoral experience!

Sharing . . .

Trip Reynolds